Top 10 Canadian Cities for Retiring

825 14th Street, Canmore, AB

With breathtaking naturescapes, top healthcare facilities, and diverse and welcoming communities, Canada attracts retirees from all over the world. Here are ten of the best Canadian cities to retire in.

1750 Patly Place, Victoria, BC

Victoria, BC

With a mild climate, picturesque beaches and ocean views, and a vibrant community, Victoria is one of Canada's most popular retirement destinations. For those looking for an active lifestyle, the city boasts several scenic golf courses, along with dozens of parks and gardens. Victoria also has top healthcare facilities and a high population of doctors.

1080 Matuka Drive, Nanoose Bay, BC

Parksville, BC

With Canada's highest concentration of seniors per capita, Parksville has been referred to as "Canada's retirement capital". Parksville boasts a mild climate year round, scenic golf courses and parks, and plenty of opportunities for boating, kayaking, and more on the Strait of Georgia.

414 Herbert Heights, Kelowna, BC

Okanagan Valley, BC

Located in BC's interior, the Okanagan is the provinces wine country, with plenty of award-winning wineries along with farms, orchards, and more. The region offers year-round outdoor recreation from boating on the Okanagan Lake to skiing at the nearby ski resorts.

1609 42 Avenue SW, Calgary, AB

Calgary, Alberta

Alberta's most populated city, Calgary has been ranked as one of the top five most livable cities in the world. With a vibrant culture, access to top healthcare facilities, and more sunshine year-round than any other part of Canada, Calgary is a popular spot for those looking to retire in a vibrant and bustling city.

825 14th Street, Canmore, AB

Canmore, Alberta

Located in Canada's Rocky Mountains, Canmore has some of the country's most breathtaking scenery. With six local golf courses and close proximity to seven national parks, Canmore offers year-round outdoor recreation along with a thriving arts scene and a welcoming community.
